

As one of the first countries in the world to produce textiles, China has a profound cultural heritage in textile technology and history. Zhejiang is a typical water town in the south of the Yangtze River. It has been known as the "Silk House" and "Hometown of Fish and Rice" since ancient times. It is also one of the birthplaces of ancient Chinese civilization. Through the "Silk Road", the textile industry is closely linked with the countries of the world. The project is located at the junction of Hangzhou City and Huzhou City, Zhejiang Province. It is located in Leidian Town, Deqing County. Deqing has thousands of years of textile history and is also an important silk weaving industry region in China.

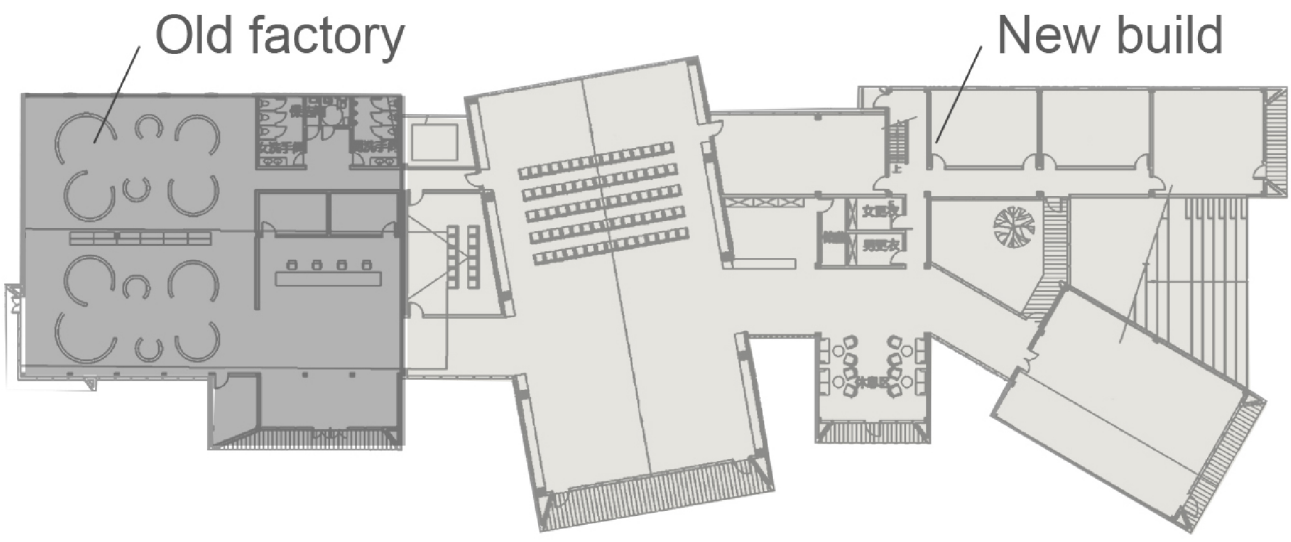

Deqing has a history of thousands of years of textile, known as the home of silk, has become the main silk factory in China

CONCEPT 01
BACKGROUND INTERPRETATION

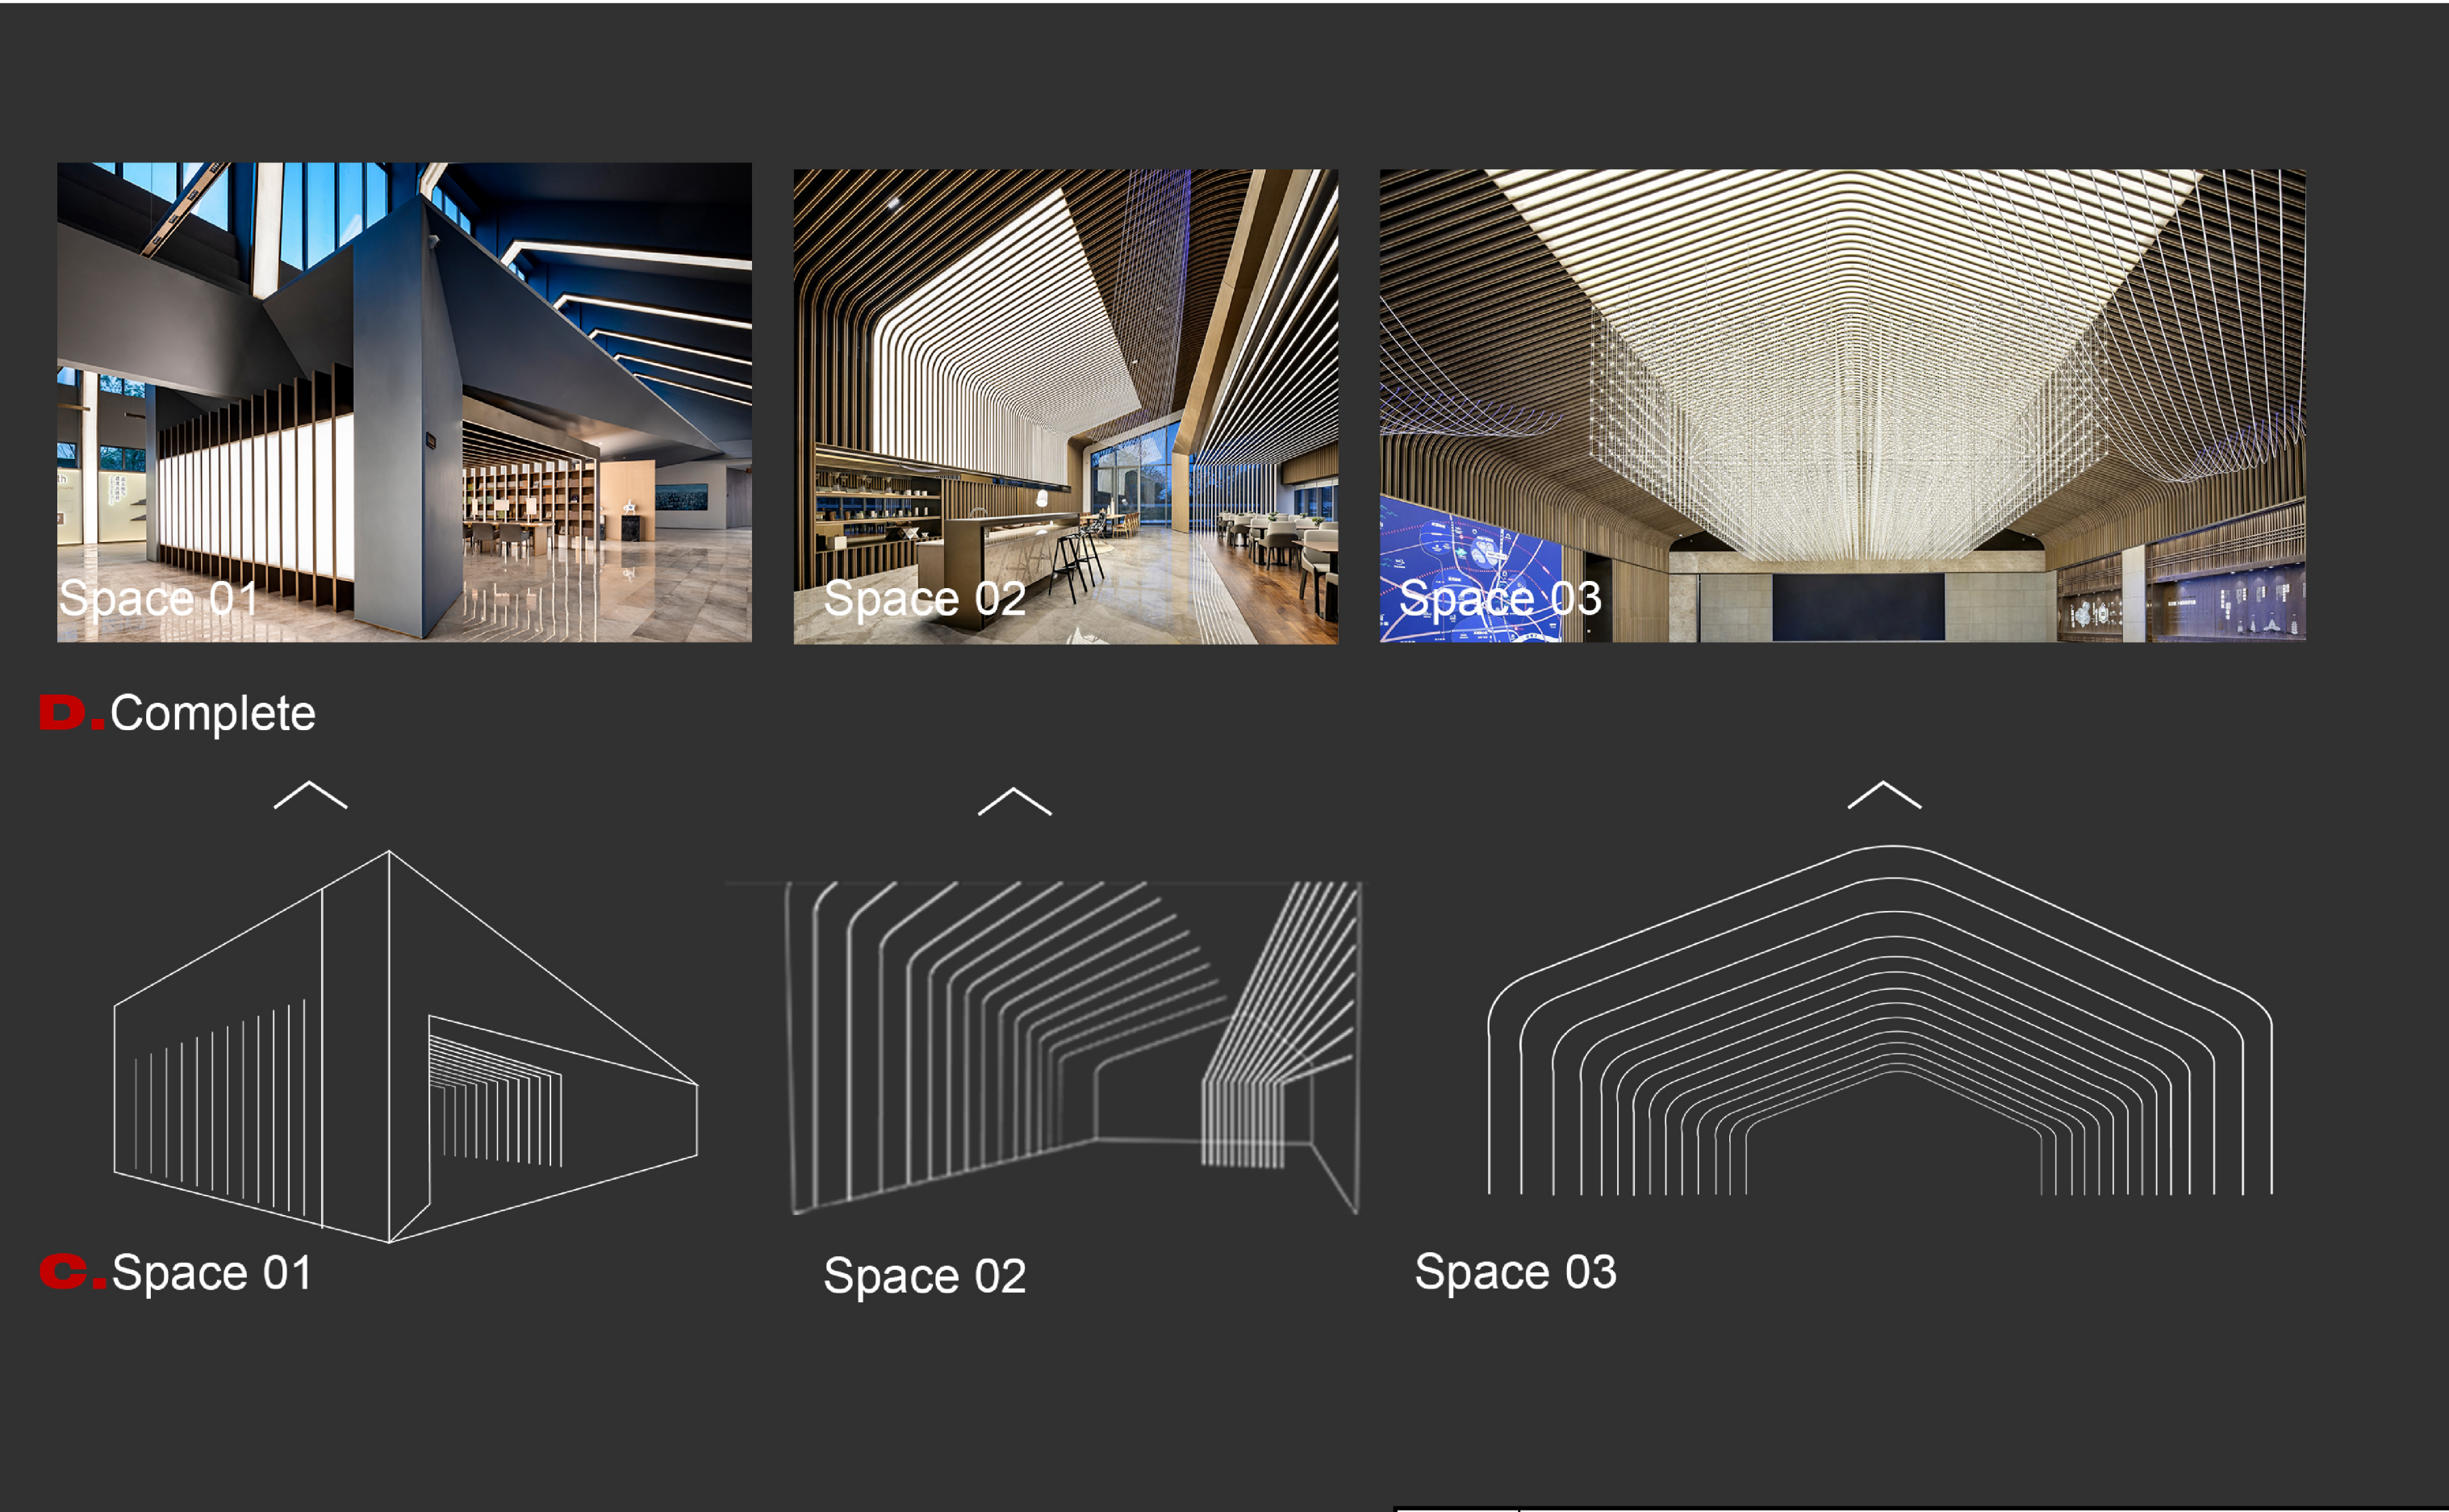

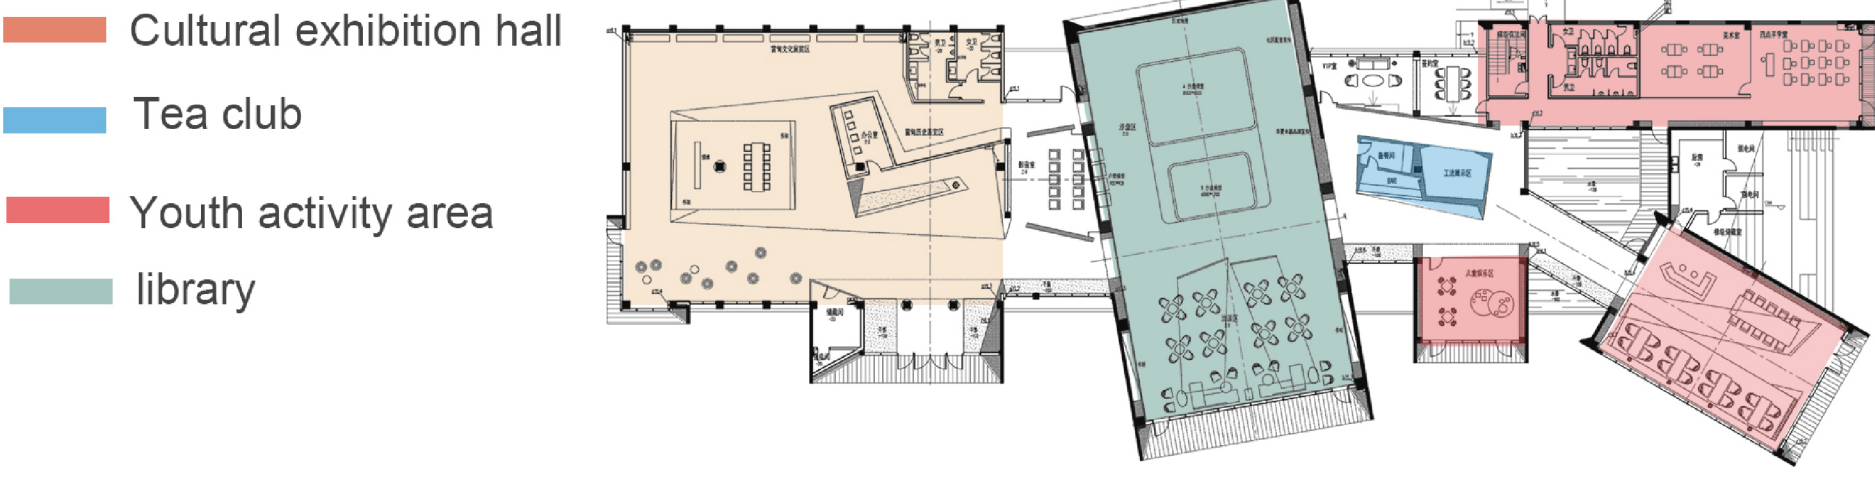

This case is an urban renewal and renovation project. Under the background of urban renewal, the designer has carried out a comprehensive study on the history and geographical features of the textile industry in Deqing County. Under the premise of respecting history, the original cultural style is retained and used. Modern design techniques reinterpret regional elements to create a modern urban art center that spans the boundaries of time and space.
